Brilliantly located. Breathtakingly designed. Introducing Grand Central Towers, a joint venture between GEOCON and Zapari located at the Woden junction for the Light Rail Stage 2.

Reaching high above the heart of the revitalised Woden Town Centre at 26 and 18 storeys, Grand Central Towers is a landmark mixed-use development at 15 Bowes Street; a former office building site located in the heart of Woden town centre. The development is located adjacent to Westfield Shopping Centre and directly abuts the transport interchange.

With Stage 2 of the Light Rail proposed to connect Woden town centre with Canberra CBD, this is without doubt the most prime development in Woden Town Centre with excellent public transport connectivity – hence the name 'Grand Central Towers'.

Situated on the ground floor of the towers, will be a brick façade and entry way to the residences above, along with several commercial tenancies which will no doubt highly benefit from the passing commuter traffic as a result of the prominent location on the transport interchange. So, whether your business relies on passing foot traffic or is a destination for your clients, Grand
